Not illustrated. 1881 Excerpt: .public favour is the so-called SilverBrown, the result of a cross between the Belgian hare and silvergrey, and as yet can hardly be said to be admitted by the fanciers as a body to the dignity of a variety. That this will be ultimately obtained we do not doubt, but we suspect that it will be some little time before the Silver-Brown will secure a permanent place in the estimation of fanciers. In the Any Other Variety class the Silver-Brown has secured a few honours, but they are neither numerous nor important enough as yet to presage a great future. At Bath, November 3, and Darlington, December 10, 1880, distinct classes were for the first time provided for this new variety. Mr. W. Heath says: -- For my part, I like Silver-Browns better than silver-creams, and it is my opinion that they will be more popular than creams. Mr. G. Johnson, of Kettering, an old fancier, and one of the earliest breeders, if not the originator, of this variety says: The time was when we used to exhibit silver-greys with clear black heads and feet, and when there were not more than four or five fanciers in England who possessed silver-greys; these silvers were what would be called dark at the present day. They were the pure bred ones, just as they had been cultivated from the silver sprig, which was the parent of the stock. They possessed sharp distinct silvering, such as is scarcely ever...
